

YOUR NEW FRIENDS

RABBITS

By Kai Nakashima

Rabbits have been domesticated for many thousands of years, even kept as pets by kings and queens.

There are many different breeds of rabbits, each with their own unique look.

Lops are known for their floppy ears.

Dwarfs are the smallest breeds.

Rex rabbits have soft, velvety fur.

Angoras need daily grooming.

Lionhead rabbits are named for their manes.

Some rabbits are no breed in particular, but they still make excellent pets.

Every rabbit has its' own personality. Some can be fierce, others are shy. Given time and respect, your rabbit will learn to trust you.

Don't underestimate a rabbit! They are very intelligent, and may even learn a trick or two.

Rabbits are fast animals. They can run, hop, leap, and some will even swim.

They love to dig!

Rabbits sure enjoy the great outdoors.
Rabbits can be taken for walks too!

Rabbits have good hearing and eyesight which they use to explore their surroundings.

Rabbits love grooming themselves just like cats do, but sometimes they need a little extra help!

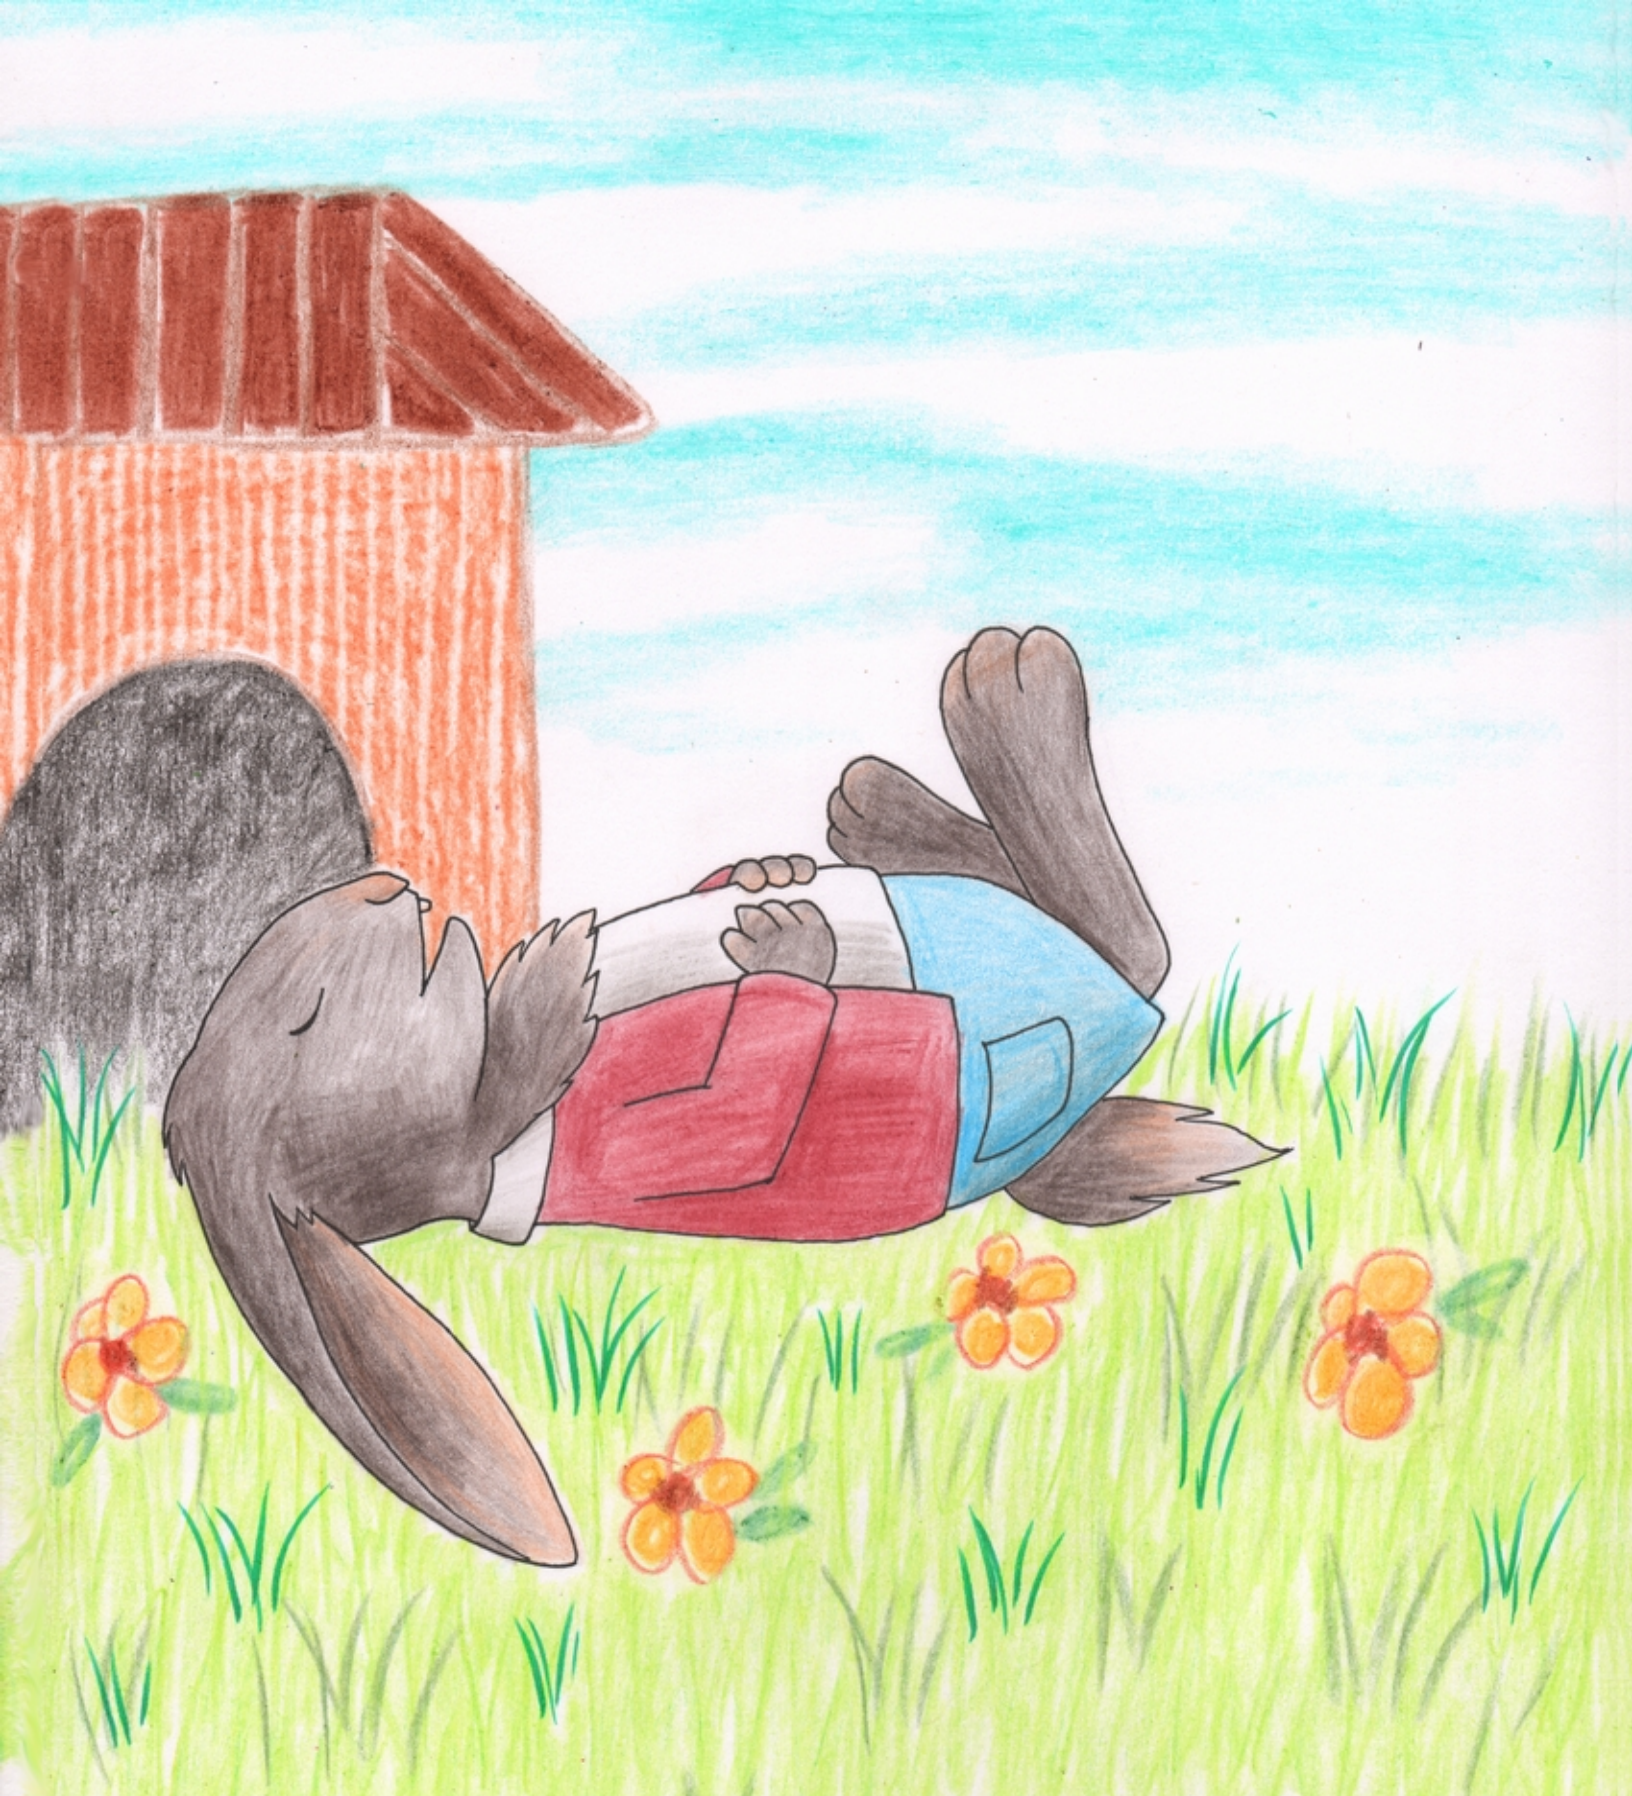

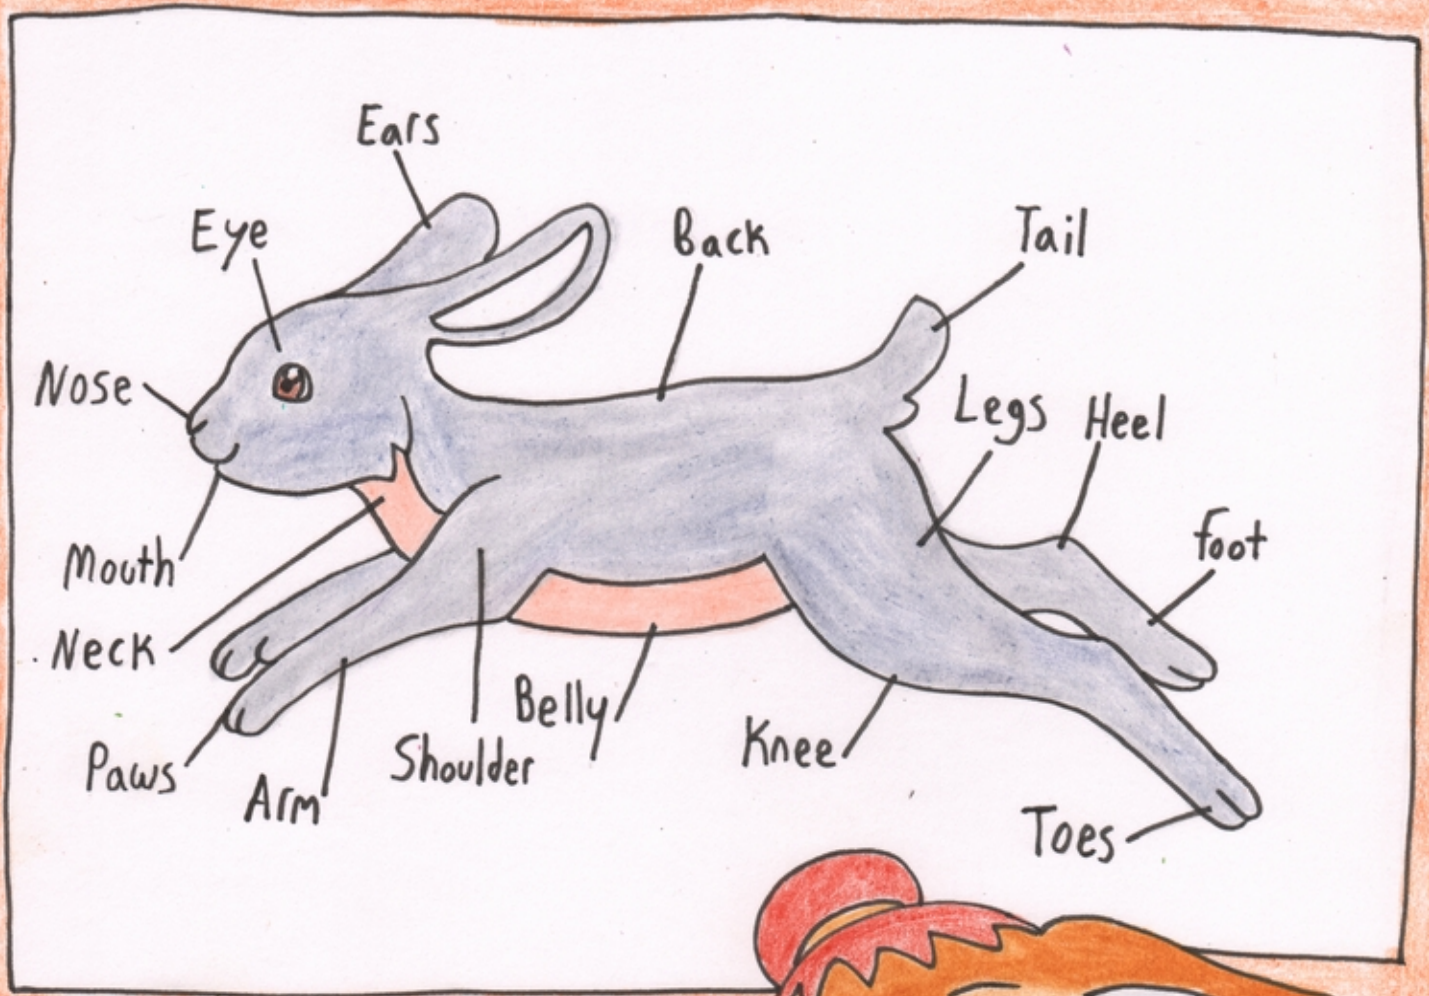

To stay healthy, your rabbit will need fresh food every day. Clean water is also important.

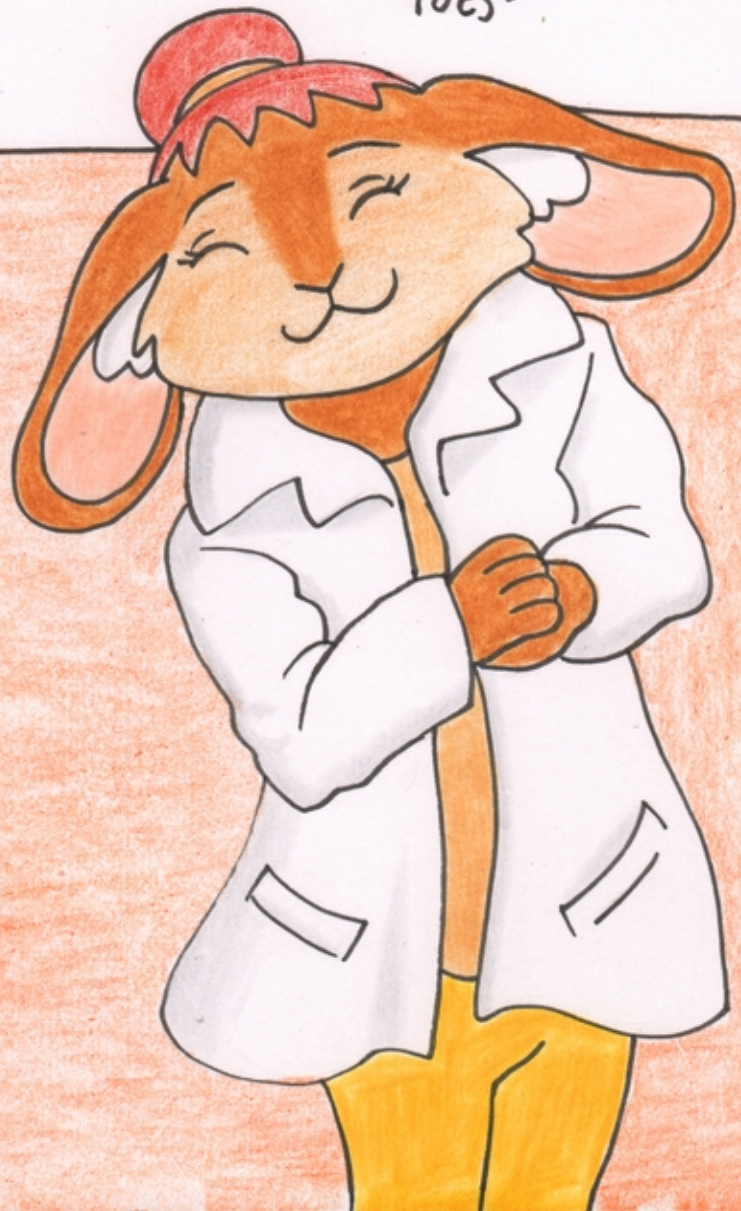

Your rabbit will need toys for playing and chewing, especially if it is a baby or singly kept rabbit.

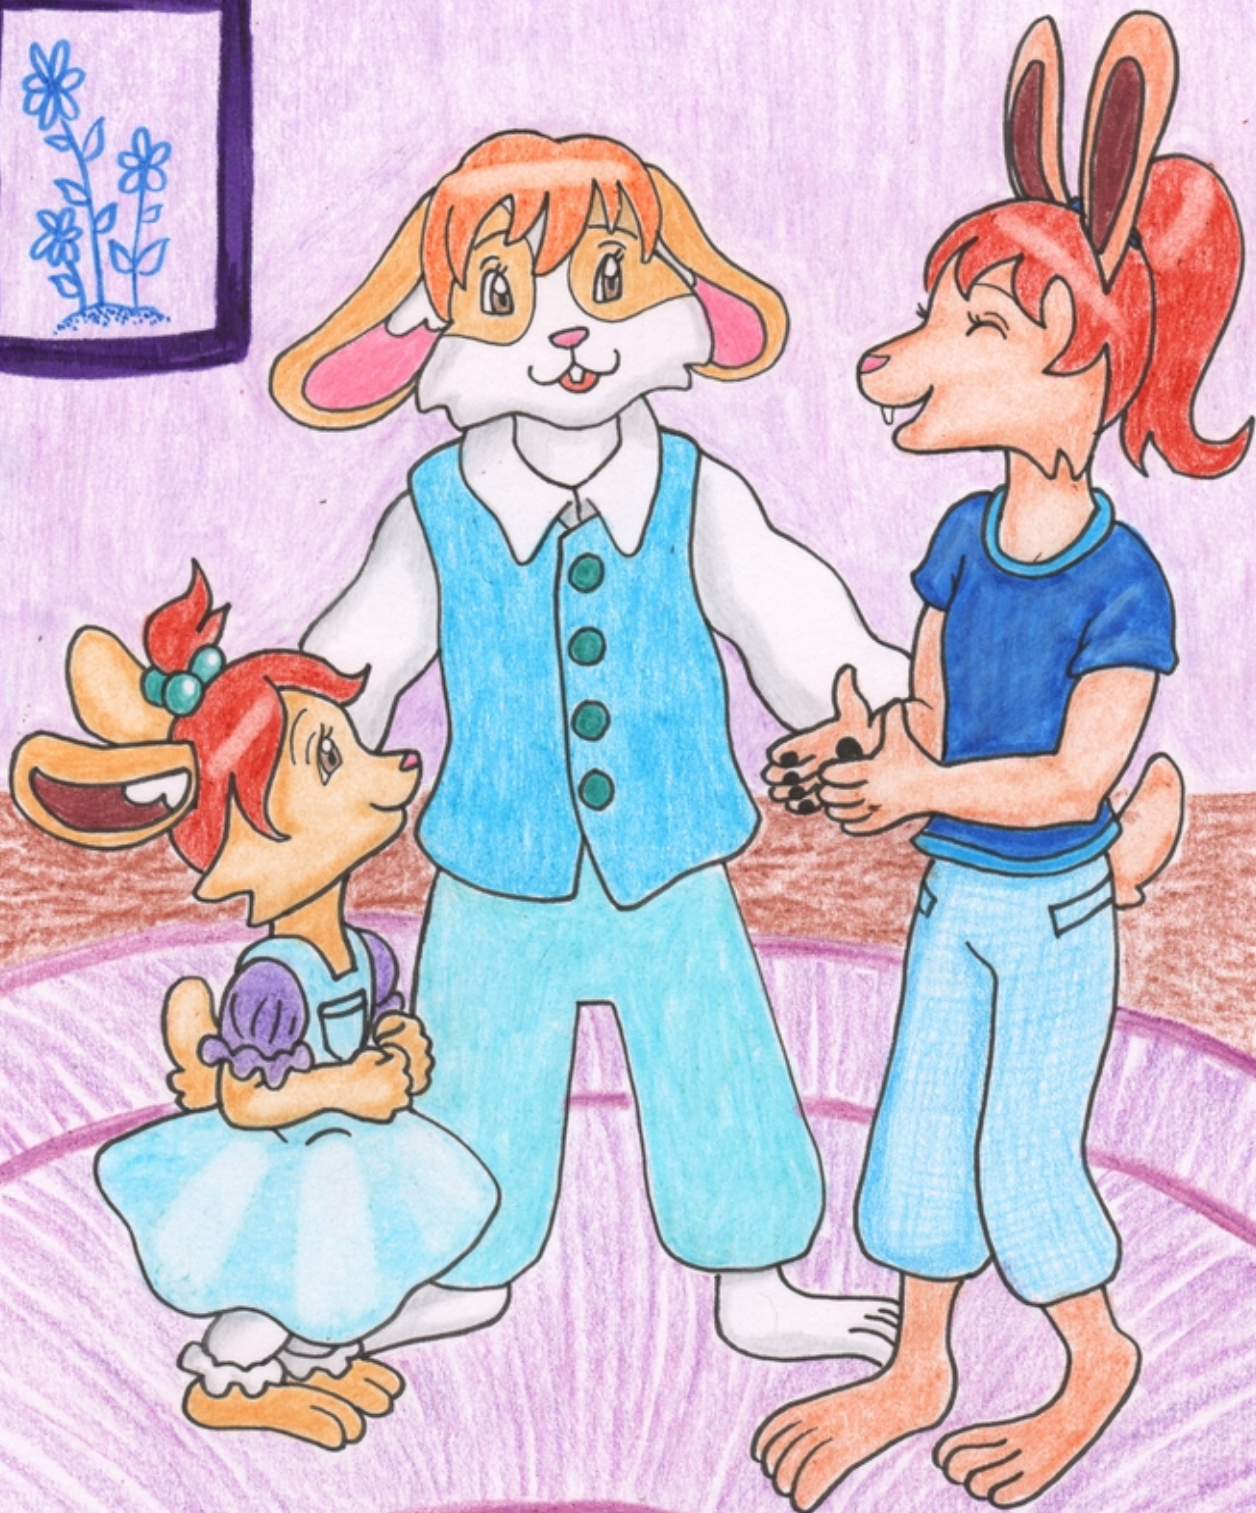

A shelter to sleep in is also important,
although, some rabbits will sleep anywhere...

What else can we learn about rabbits?

Rabbits are really cool!

Here are some guidelines for drawing your own manga rabbit.

1. Begin with the head. The rabbits' ears can be pointed or floppy.

2. Finish the face and add the neck.

3. Next, your rabbit will need some stylish clothes

4. Now, just add the arms, tail, and legs, and he's ready for a name!

I would like to thank my family for the possibility of this book, especially my brother who contributed his artwork and made sure Benny had a good life. And to Benny and Coco for being great bunnies.
Thank you!
